

CARRANZA ASKS HELP OF U. S. IN PREVENTING VILLA'S BORDER RAIDS

Arredondo Suggests That All
American Troops On Front
Be Unusually Active

AGREES TO BE VIGILANT

Request Contains Indication That Pancho
Has Again Attained Enough Power to Be a Factor

DOUGLAS, Ariz., July 7.—Sergeants Deane and Burnett of Troop C, First United States cavalry, were arrested today by Carranza soldiers patrolling the border west of here and thrown into jail at Agua Prieta. The Carranzistas said they found the two soldiers on Mexican soil.

After they had been held at Agua Prieta for a short time, General Calles ordered them released, and they were turned over to Captain Rigelow, intelligence officer there.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The de facto government of Mexico is not sure that it can protect the American frontier from bandit raids, Ambassador Dodd has admitted today. He so notified the state department. And in connection with that notification he suggested that all American troops on the border be unusually active.

This new position assumed by General Carranza and his advisers was a distinct relief to the United States. Orders immediately were rushed to the various commanders all along the line to keep their troops ready for any eventualities. The very fact that in admitting that the situation was grave, Ambassador Dodd also said that the Carranzistas had accepted the Carranza position as a serious factor in Mexican affairs.

The orders to Arredondo to announce that the situation was serious, came direct from General Carranza. According to an official statement issued by the Mexican embassy, the Carranza garrison at Corralitos was almost destroyed by an attack from the Villistas. Whether Villa was in personal command is not yet known, although administration officials feel certain that he was.

Admission in the announcement by the embassy that General Carranza has agreed to "exercise all possible vigilance" south of the border, was very pleasing to officials here. The announcement and warning was received by Secretary of State Lansing and President Wilson while the cabinet was in session. It was accepted as indicating a "complete change of heart" by the de facto government and the cabinet officials are understood to have agreed that, coupled with the latest declaration of principles by Carranza, it indicates that there will be no obstacle raised in the way of a complete settlement of the issues at stake by diplomatic measures.

In discussing the communication he received from Carranza, Arredondo said:

"I have brought to the attention of the state department the fact that a large band of Villistas attacked our garrison at Corralitos on Wednesday, almost destroying it. Fearing that this band might try to penetrate the desert as far as the border and cause further difficulties between Mexico and the United States, General Carranza has directed the attention of the American government so that all possible vigilance may be exercised on the American side of the border."

"Mr. Carranza agrees to use all possible vigilance on the Mexican side."

Acting Secretary Polk said this afternoon the text of the American reply to General Carranza's latest note was "comparatively unimportant." It simply agreed to settle all of the questions in dispute by direct negotiations, he said.

Unofficial representations have been made to the de facto government of Mexico concerning the reported activity of Francisco Villa. The report that the bandit leader, recovered from his wounds, now heads a column of some 3,000 men is causing the administration some concern. It is understood that Com-

PANIC STARTED IN NEW YORK AS PLAGUE GROWS

Epidemic of Infantile Paralysis is Becoming Alarming.

FAMILIES IN FLIGHT

Cases Appear in New Jersey, Philadelphia and Chicago.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 7.—The discovery of one positive case of infantile paralysis and another suspected case in the same vicinity today stirred health Commissioner Bishop into fresh activities in his campaign to prevent a widespread outbreak of the disease in Cleveland.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Twenty-two deaths were reported in the 24 hours ending at 10 o'clock against twenty-four in the previous 24 hours. There were 87 new cases reported. During the preceding 24 hours 133 new cases had developed. Although the figures are small, it was stated that the disease is increasing in some districts which have hitherto been immune from it. There are 400 cases being treated in two hospitals in Brooklyn, whereas on July 1 only 321 cases of the disease were known to exist in the entire city.

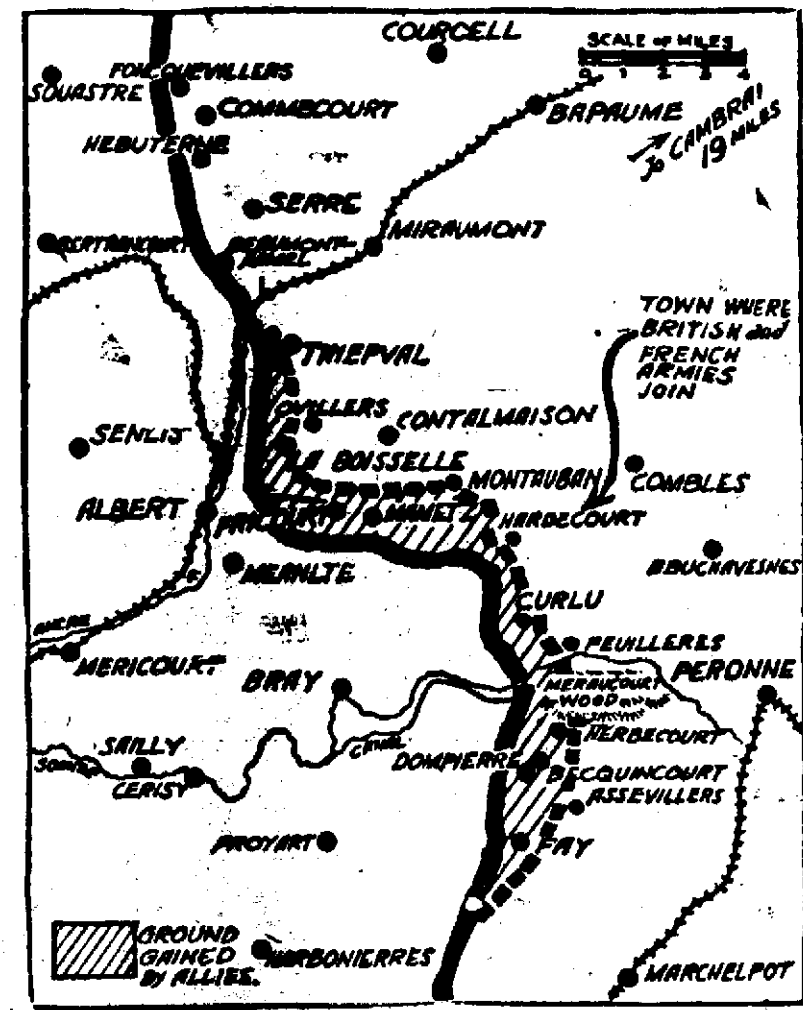

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The public service board of the United States public health service today ordered its officials in all cities throughout the country to make an immediate report on infantile paralysis cases, with a view of rushing experts to infected centers to stop the disease. The board ordered out the first experts, sending Dr. W. C. Rucker, head of the quarantine division, New York City, to take immediate measures for checking the disease there. Additional health officers from nearby cities have also been ordered to New York.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Having been pledged the aid of the federal government in their difficult task, city and state health authorities in this city today attacked the epidemic of infantile paralysis with renewed vigor. The continued increase in the number of children stricken has convinced all officials that stringent methods, which had been only tentatively considered, would have to be taken.

The epidemic has now spread from Greater New York across the Hudson river to New Jersey and northward as well. Country districts which had been considered immune are now reporting many cases. The situation has become alarming on Long Island and on Staten Island. Thousands of par-

Where the British and French Drive the Germans

GERMANY'S USE OF SUBMARINES AGAIN WATCHED

Little Fear of New Clash
Entertained in the Capital.

TRUST TO PLEDGES

Good Faith of Berlin to be Accepted as Being Genuine.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Renewal of the reports from German sources that the Teutonic submarine campaign shortly may be renewed against all of the allied shipping has caused little apprehension here. It is believed that Germany will stand by the pledges already solemnly given no matter what pressure is brought to bear to have them violated. Officials say all of the diplomatic advices received here indicate that submarines are closely following out the doctrine of visitation and search in all of their operations and that the conservative policy still is in control.

It is admitted however that a very serious disaster to the German arms in connection with the "pushing movement" now in progress on the west front might force a change of policy. The officials say that such a contingency is at present remote and cannot be considered.

No reply yet has been received from Austria to the note in the Petrolite case in which this government demanded a complete apology, punishment of the submarine commander responsible for the attack, and the payment of an indemnity. It is the intention of the state department to press this point and if a voluntary reply is not forthcoming in the near future it is expected that Ambassador Penfield will be instructed to press for one.

Officials here are watching the developments of the Anglo-French offensive on the west front very closely. It is accepted here that it may have a very direct bearing on the end of the war. If the Germans are eventually forced to fall back on their Rhine defenses the great obstacle that France has insisted was in the way of peace negotiations—the presence of an enemy on French soil—would be removed, officials here say, and the way might be opened for general peace negotiations.

President Wilson admittedly is waiting until the opportune moment arrives to renew his offer of mediation. Now that the Mexican crisis has passed it is expected that he shortly will again call upon all of the American diplomatic representatives in the belligerent countries to report on the feeling there toward peace. No action, however, is expected to be taken until the present general campaign of the entente allies is completed.

Not Many to Take Advan-

CAMP WILLIS, O., July 7.—Regimental commanders here today said very few of their men would take advantage of the order of Secretary of War Baker under which they can secure their discharge if they have one or more dependent relatives.

The scope of this order is so broad that it leaves an outlet for fully eighty per cent of the militiamen, high officials said.

"The men will not try to get out because they are in to stay," said Captain R. U. Hastings, adjutant of the Eighth regiment.

"The order will probably speed up enlisting, however, as the men who want to serve only for the Mexican trouble will feel sure now that they can get out as soon as the border conflicts are over."

Captain Hastings, who is superintendent of the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school in private life, today said he could raise a fine company from the older boys in his institution.

"I have a hundred or more boys who would make fine soldiers," said Captain Hastings. "They have been

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Secretary Daniels reported to the senate today that of the 17 battleships of the Atlantic fleet, four were rated as excellent in target practice, four good, two fair, four poor and three unsatisfactory. The San Diego of the Pacific fleet was rated as excellent. The report was made in response to a resolution of Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts.

The battleships were rated as follows:

Excellent—Arkansas, Georgia, New York and Texas.
Good—Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Wyoming.
Fair—Nebraska and New Jersey.
Poor—Virginia, Florida, Kansas, and Michigan.
Unsatisfactory—Louisiana, South Carolina and Utah.

TOKIO, July 7.—That Japan and Russia are now joined in a treaty of alliance was officially announced today by the foreign office. The communiqué on the subject says:

"The substance of the Russo-Japanese treaty is that neither power shall join any political combination against the other. If the territorial interests of either power are menaced both shall consult for their common interests and joint defense."

AMSTERDAM, July 7.—Food riots have broken out in Lage and many persons have been hurt, according to information received here today.

LONDON, July 7.—Demands in Germany for a resumption of the submarine campaign against allied shipping without restrictions, appear to be having an effect of increasing activity of the part of the Teutonic U-boats.

It was announced today that the British merchant steamer Gannet had been sunk by a submarine. The Gannet was an unarmed vessel. The Gannet displaced 1,127 tons and was built in 1879. Its home port was London.

Shortly after news of the loss of the Gannet was received, a despatch sent from Berlin announced that the British steamer Lestrade had been captured near the English coast. This vessel was built in 1905, hails from Cork and displaces 1,384 tons.

According to the Berlin message, transmitted via Amsterdam, the German admiral claims the Lestrade was taken by the German high seas forces. This would indicate, if true, that the German fleet, or part of it, had made another dash from port.

ITALIANS ADVANCING.

Heavy Artillery Fire Playing Be-

ROME, July 7.—Two defensive positions of the Austro-Hungarians at Casera and Zebio, have been captured by the Italians, the war office announced. Austro-Hungarians are bombarding the Italian lines with great violence, especially between the Adige and Astico valley. The following is the war office report.

"Between the Adige and the Astico there is intense artillery firing. The enemy is shelling with unusual violence the slopes of Monte Majo north of Posina. Counter attacks have been made by the enemy in the region of Monte Cimone. We continue our steady progress in the Rio Predo and Astico valleys."

"At Sette and on the Comunita plateau we renewed our attacks between Monte Interrotto and Monte Campioletto. We captured two points of the enemy's defenses at Casera and Zebio and we were also successful at Malcopazza, taking 259 prisoners, of whom five were officers. We also captured three machine guns. Counter attacks failed. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy."

"On the Campioletto valley we continue to dislodge the enemy from the mountain slopes."

VIENNA, (via Berlin wireless) July 7.—Russian troops are making violent attacks in the region of Kolomea in an effort to take the city, according to an official statement of the war office made public today. ## VICTIM OF ERIE FREIGHT SAID TO LIVE NEAR LIMA

An unidentified man, about 40 years of age, was instantly killed this morning at about 6 o'clock near the station of the Erie railroad at Westminster, Ohio, nine miles from Lima. His head was severed from his body and the left limb amputated below the knee. He fell from a passing freight train and the string of cars passed over the body. A tag in his coat bore the name, "B. Baker."

The body is being held at the Williams and Davis mortuary in West Market street, awaiting positive identification and word from relatives. The Williams and Davis ambulance was called soon after the accident and the body of the man removed to Lima.

Dr. E. J. Curtis, county coroner, accompanied the ambulance to the scene of the accident and viewed the body before its removal. He will render a verdict that death was due to a railroad accident.

The man is believed to have been a resident of Allen county or some town not far distant. Inquiry at Harrod and towns near there brought the reply that there were many families of Bakers in that part of the county. But up to a late hour this afternoon identification of the body had not been made, although a constant stream of people passed in and out of the mortuary in West Market street.

The train was moving at a moderate rate of speed. The accident occurred at a distance of 500 feet east of the small station used by the Erie at Westminster.

The dead man had been in Lima attending the automobile races at the fair grounds on the Fourth of July, evidently, because he bore in his pocket, a score card and program of the races and several other checks which indicated that he had been an interested spectator at the races.

The amount of nearly $5 was found in the man's pockets. An empty whiskey bottle of pint measure was also found in the pockets. Both arms bore tattoo marks. The face was smooth-shaven.

He is described as being about 5 feet, 9 or 10 inches in height, weighing about 150 pounds, had brown hair and brown eyes, but the hair was streaked with grey. He wore a blue suit, a white striped shirt and a brown, soft hat which was purchased at a clothing store on East Market street, in this city, as it bore the mark of this firm.

He was well-dressed and there is every reason to believe he was not an ordinary tramp, heading his way on the freight train.

A description of the man has been sent to towns near Lima in the hope that relatives may be located or the positive identification of the body be made.

Official report:

The fighting front at Kolomea has been extended. A strong hostile advance west of the city has been stopped by our counter attacks southeast of Tiumana, where both German and Austro-Hungarian troops are fighting.

(This is the first official statement that German troops have been sent into Southern Galicia to stiffen the Austro-Hungarian line.)

"The Russians delivered a particularly strong attack with cavalry over a front of a mile but broke down under the artillery and machine gun fire of the Teutons. In the district south of the Lusk attacks by the German allies have won more ground. West and north of Lusk violent Russian efforts were repulsed. In the region of Zloczow the Russians attacked with cavalry but their efforts were fruitless.

"North and east of Sarnowich German and Austro-Hungarian troops repulsed powerful attacks which had been preceded by terrible artillery fire. Fighting in that district is still in progress.

"Italian front—The Italian artillery continues extremely active against our entire front and there is also much activity on the part of mine throwers on the Dordob plateau and in the district south of Monte Delisob. Intensive attacks with hand grenades have been repulsed.

"In the district of Monte Interoto, Lieutenant Kaiser with a patrol of six men belonging to a territorial regiment engaged in a successful enterprise, during which they were fired upon with machine guns, and from which they returned with 366 Italian prisoners, of whom four were officers. At other points 14 officers and 350 men were taken prisoners."

The Russians claim to have captured Kolomea.

LULL ON SOMME FRONT.

Allied Drive Checks But Germans Still Hammer Verdun Line.

PARIS, July 7.—A lull has settled down upon the infantry fighting on the Somme river front.

The French war office, in an official communique today stated that only bombardments were in progress in that region last night.

On the Verdun front the Germans are still striving to smash the French lines and cannonade of gigantic proportions were in progress all last night on both sides of the Meuse.

The German gunners concentrated their fire east of the river on the French positions at Thiaumont, Fleury and Chenail wood.

During the lull in the infantry fighting north and south of the Somme the French and British have taken advantage of the occasion to organize their new positions. The meantime, however, they were subjected to a violent fire from German batteries.

ANCIENT CLAYWARE FOUND BY SOLDIERS

U. S. Troopers Dig Up Pottery Older Than Mexican Aztecs.

GENERAL PERSHING'S HEADQUARTERS, near Colonia Dublan, June 29 (Via Motor to Columbus, N. M., July 7).—This camp is built upon the dust of an ancient race, a people so ancient that only the merest fragments of their history have been "dug up" by research parties from Mexican and American archaeological institutions.

Dug up, in this instance, is literal, for the scientists who have explored in this region from time to time, have had to dig deep into the earth to carry on their work. About the only tangible things relating to this little known race found by the explorers are scores of pieces of wonderfully colored pottery. That this fragile stuff should endure through all the centuries, while nothing else remained, is remarkable.

Not a single bit of metal has been unearthed so far as is known. No vestige of a written language has been discovered.

Estimates of the antiquity of this people vary widely. Some Mexican scientists have guessed that the race was at least 10,000 years old. Most of the scientists who have explored in this valley agree that the race died out from 1,000 to 2,000 years ago.

Centuries before the dauntless Spanish explorers and missionaries pushed northward into this wild region skirting the high peaked Sierra Madras, the dust of ages had begun to obliterate the adobe huts and the graves of these ancients.

Except for the general term of Indian, no name has been assigned to them and it is very doubtful if they were of the Indian stock that peopled North America when Columbus landed.

What kind of dwellings did these Indians inhabit? No one knows. Near the 200-year-old town of Casas Grandes, 7 miles southwest of Camp Dublan, scientists have excavated to a depth of 50 to 100 feet and have discovered the clay vessels used by these people for cooking and drinking, but nothing to indicate what manner of houses they lived in (if, indeed, they dwelt in "houses" at all) has been brought to light. No stone implements or weapons have been found.

When the pottery was discovered many valuable specimens were lost because the first explorers did not take proper precaution against exposing them to the air too suddenly. When exposed, immediately to the air they soon crumbled to dust. The Harvard museum contains the finest individual collection of this pottery. It was sent to the institution by Mrs. E. C. Houston, wife of the manager of the Corralitos ranch, where many of the relics have been found. One thing is known positively about this race, that they were expert in the preparation of colors which would last for centuries. The red, blue and orange colorings on most of the clay pots and drinking vessels are as fresh and brilliant today as they were when they were first burned into clay.

Crude patterns of a semi-geometrical design were painted on some of the pottery. Mexican scientists who have poked around "in the ruins" of this valley believe that the dead race was one of dwarfs. That they were feeble worshippers is almost certain, as their pottery shows. Many of the pieces are hollow statues of dwarfed men and women with the graved with, creative organs grotesquely enlarged. This fact has given rise in some scientific circles to the theory that this strange people was in some way related to the old feeble worshippers of prehistoric Greece and southern Europe. One Mexican archaeologist has even advanced the theory that the fabled "Lost Atlantis" was a continent connecting Europe with America, over which the fallow of the eastern hemisphere migrated thousands of years since to this remote region.

VICTIMS OF STORM ON GULF COAST MAY REACH TOTAL OF 80

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 7.—A steamer and several sailing boats carrying more than 50 persons have been missing since the recent hurricane and it is feared here today that all on board the vessels have perished. Latest reports from coast towns with which communication has been restored indicate that the property damage in the storm will exceed $2,000,000.

The steamer Frida, bound from New Orleans to Progreso, carried a crew of 22 men. It is long overdue and is believed to have gone down. A schooner from Gulfport with 16 persons aboard is missing. Wreckage from the vessel was found today on Island No. 1.

Five fishing boats that put out from Challdier, Miss., each carrying a crew of six, are listed as lost and several excursion parties to the various islands at the mouth of the Mississippi have not returned.

FIST FIGHT STARTS INVASION RUMORS

Little Needed to Spread Alarm on Border at Present.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 7.—It takes little or nothing these days to start rumors throughout Texas and along the border. Everything that happens and a lot of things that happen only in superheated imaginations are so twisted as to put a war face on them.

But one night recently there was a false alarm that caused Fort Sam Houston real concern. It was not until it was all over that San Antonians understood why the army was so worked up. Around midnight a report spread that Mexican bandits had attacked and attempted to destroy the Southern Pacific bridge across the Medina river 18 miles out of San Antonio. It was said that American soldiers had been wounded in the attack and color was lent to the story by the fact that an ambulance went from the military hospital at the Army Post.

The explanation was almost ludicrous. Two regular soldiers engaged in a fight. One now is in the guard-house, the other in the hospital.

Why the uproar? A detachment of coast artillerymen for some time has been guarding the huge and costly Medina dam, the destruction of which, a comparatively simple undertaking, would cut San Antonio off from the world and absolutely prevent the transportation of troops and supplies to the border. It would take more than a month to repair the damage. Medina Dam forms Medina Lake, a 22 mile expanse of water.

To cut this dam would loose an avalanche of water that would destroy every railroad connection into and out of San Antonio. Every railroad through the city passes a bridge over the Medina. With the lake set free, every one of these bridges would be carried out.

Not alone would the property damage run into millions, but the loss of life in the Medina valley would be frightful. Thousands of people would be drowned as they slept should the dam be cut. Fort Sam Houston would be completely cut off from the entire border.

Strangely enough, it did not occur to the military authorities that Medina Dam was worth guarding until the recent bandit scare in Duxar county. Two weeks ago a dozen or so Mexicans, armed with rifles and pistols, terrorized the countryside within a few miles of San Antonio. Sheriff's posse scoured the country for several days, but succeeded in running down only one of the bandits. The result, though, was the guarding of the bridge and important

THE LAKE TOMAHAWK

VOL. 1. INDIAN LAKE, OHIO. NO. 13

H. M. ROONEY, Editor

WEATHER—Hot. WATER—Elegant.

Wednesday.

The enthusiasm of the Fourth used up so much of our energies that we were in need of a little extra rest. Thanks to the "Doc," we got a half-hour longer in bed this morning. Glad to get it, you bet!

With two motor-bicycles in camp, the crowd are taking lessons in how to operate the noisy bikes. Inevitably and the Chief are the instructors. Mid banged his knee in starting a machine, to the amusement of everyone. "Doc" was unable to find any liniment for him.

"Mid" continues to be nurse to the infants. Perhaps he can find work in the Children's Home when he gets to King.

Bobby King had visitors today and he invited them to inspect the tents. He goes to the hotel for supper this evening. Betcha he doesn't get anything better than we have.

Robinson and Rooney won the Senior tennis doubles today from Reese and Cleveland. The contest was exciting, as two out of three sets were necessary to decide the winners. Reese and Cleveland took the first at 6-4 and Rooney and Robinson the next two at 6-1; 6-0.

The athletic meet this afternoon gave us a lot of competition. The 50 yard dash went to Johnny Douglas, Dille second, Robinson third. Running broad jump, Robinson first, Johnny Douglas second. Three standing jumps, Robinson first, Dille second, J. Douglas third. Three legged race won by Douglas and Robinson, MacGinnis and Hunter second. Shoe race won by Robinson, Crawford second, Douglas third. Quarter-mile relay race won by Robinson, Dille Young and Moore. Mile run, won by Robinson, Moore second and Young third.

The island has been busy since Saturday and the majority left late last evening for their homes. We now are happy, as we have the whole place almost to ourselves. We wish that picnicers wouldn't let their papers lay around our campus. It makes much work for us.

Questions.—Since we have lost our camp kitchen, why doesn't Bobby Hunter? If he is 14 years of age, is Colly Young?

At 15 is Don Moore? No 2 tent again developed a desire to shine, and cleaned up their abode in such fashion as to win the approval of the inspectors. That's sure a crowd of hustlers when they start something.

General Secretary Eberhart has sent us a big box of marshmallows for our consumption. We know what to do with such gifts, and extend our thanks to Mr. Eberhart.

Tomorrow will be our busy day in camp. We have to do our preliminary packing and we hope for good weather. It seems such a short time since we first came to camp that we hardly have unpacked our things.

The final parts of the emblems will be awarded to the fellows who earn them and there is a possibility that some fellows may lose a part of what they have won.

Thursday.

Our last day in camp. Tomorrow morning we shall have all packed and ready to leave for home. No. 1 Tent and the store tent were taken down this afternoon. This makes our campus look strange and somehow lonesome.

Tomorrow will be the day we don't like the leaving of the old spot.

Tonight we are to burn the grouch. This is a very ceremonious occasion and all take part. A council fire is held and all the things we don't wish to take home are consigned to the flames.

Robinson, representing the grouch of the camp, and all dance around shouting and drinking pop. So, we leave our grouch behind and return home jolly good fellows.

Robinson has just discovered that the "Tomahawk" hasn't said a complimentary thing about him. Sorry, Hiram, but this paper's motto, "The Truth and the Whole Truth for Publication," must be adhered to.

Since Sunday we have had a very fine bunch of fellows. No one has had the honor of walking in the "bull ring." Sorry Sid isn't here or he might do us a favor.

Four gentlemen from the Island Hotel inspected our tents today. They had to make three trips through before deciding in favor of No. 3. Double-deckers were awarded to No. 2 the highest total this week. The best tent during the season. No. 2, winning six inspec-

Carranza Asks Help of U. S. in Preventing Villa's Border Raids

General Rodriguez in Mexico City again has pointed out to the military authorities there the advisability of utilizing their best troops to immediately eliminate Villa as a factor. So long as he is permitted to maintain an army in Mexico he will be looked upon as a distinct menace to peace and this government will not withdraw its forces from along the border as long as there is a possibility that Villa may attempt another raid or attack Americans in northern Mexico.

Meanwhile the United States was prepared to take up with the de facto government all of the questions in dispute. The reply to Carranza's latest note will be sent to Mexico City immediately. A copy of it already has been delivered to Ambassador Designate Orredondo and it is admitted at the embassy to be very satisfactory. This government, as was predicted, will accept the plan of direct negotiation instead of mediation and it is believed that General Pershing's troops will be withdrawn to their own side of the border very shortly.

Counselor Polk, as acting secretary, will conduct negotiations and according to present plans they will have a very wide scope.

It is admitted that the great need of the de facto government is to restore tranquility throughout Mexico, is ready cash. The treasury is depleted and the present exchange rate ruinous. It is believed here, that as soon as the Carranza government agrees to meet the wishes of the United States in protecting the border the United States government will aid it in securing whatever funds are needed to meet immediate obligations and to relieve existing distress. It is understood that certain of the leading financial institutions in this country permitted the use of their influence in the recent negotiations in Mexico City which culminated in Carranza meeting the views of the Wilson administration. These institutions promised, if conditions were met, to see that the Mexican credit is restored and it is expected this will be done very soon.

Announcement by the war department that all married national guardsmen will be discharged from the army is accepted here as meaning that the government expects to keep the bulk of the guardsmen in service for months if possible. However, it is certain that this will be a very difficult task. Already certain organizations are bombarding their representatives in congress with complaints about conditions. The claim they are not getting sufficient food; that it is of poor character; that they are being discriminated against by regular army officers, etc. While none of these complaints represent the real spirit of the various organizations they indicate to experienced officials here what is to be expected as the months go by. Consequently every effort is being made to recruit the regular army up to the limit of peace strength as soon as possible so that the guard organizations can be returned to their stations. In line with this plan is the call to the army reserve to report to the colors immediately.

Friday.

We broke camp today. All were up at 5 a. m., and busy with the work of taking down cots and packing. Celly Young, Don Moore, Mid Cleveland and Mr. Young were out fishing. They returned with a big string, the most of which were caught with a silver hook.

Herman Robinson sprung this one. Are you hungry? Yes, Sam. Well, I'll fill you some Chile and Turkey.

We all slept, when we could get the skeletons to leave us alone. We have closed our camp and are on our way home. Our trip has been an enjoyable time, gotten close to nature, and had the opportunity to commune with Nature's God. For all this we are thankful, and in this, our last issue, wish each and everyone the chance to have as good a time as has been our good fortune.

NEW CIVIL WAR OPENS.

Oregon Prepares to Take Field Against Villa Faction.

By Wallace E. Smith, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

EL PASO, Texas, July 7.—Minister of War Oregon is preparing to abandon his post as Carranza's chief cabinet officer today to take the field against Pancho Villa and that renegade's victorious borders, according to advices received in Juarez from Mexico City. Impatient at the failure of his commanders to check Villa's latest campaign and alarmed by the steady growth of Villa's forces, General Oregon is said to be ready to start at an hour's notice for the neighborhood of Jimenez.

Meanwhile Villa and his new army, reported to have taken Jimenez, seemed to be debating whether to push the Carranzista force back still further upon Jimenez or direct attention to the Torreon district, where American property worth many millions is located.

Unless Villa is crushed immediately he will be the greatest menace that the de facto government can have. Not only will he prove the bandit situation, but there is doubt that eventually he will attempt to overthrow that government.

No one appreciates this better than General Oregon. For this reason he is ready to take active personal charge of the Mexican army and attempt to repeat the crushing defeat he once administered to Villa. Villa's success along the 40 mile battle line between Parral and Jimenez places him in a strong position. Through this part of Mexico he has always been favored.

Carranza officials admit that Chihuahua City, the headquarters of their northern army is really a Villa stronghold and that the great majority of the population is utterly for the picturesque outlaw. Thousands of men now wearing the Carranza uniform have been notoriously eager for a chance to join the Villa forces.

The chance seems to have come.

Villa has issued a call to his adherents to all his old chieftains, especially those serving Carranza. Added to this appeal came the news that Carranza and the United States government had patched up the differences between them. With the chance of abolishing Carranza dwindling and their old leader on the war-path, there seemed to be little doubt as to the inclinations of the Villistas.

"Pancho Villa's army is growing every minute," said an arrival from the interior of Mexico today. "He started against Parral with about 600 men. He has more than three times that number now and getting stronger all the time. He is equipped as well as the Carranza forces. In fact, some of the bands under him wear Carranza uniforms and bear arms they brought when they left the Carranza ranks. Unless they stop Pancho Villa within the next few days they will never stop him."

Reports from the south were few. The Mexican officials here as yet issued no statement to account for Villa's apparently easy victory over the reinforcements sent from Chihuahua City after General Ramos had been defeated and slain. It was stated unofficially that the Carranza garrison at Jimenez surrendered or retreated at the approach of the Villa forces. Villa has always shown positive genius for becoming perniciously active at a time when his activities will most embarrass his enemies. This time is no exception.

Snipers continue to be active along the border and El Paso and its immediate environs seem to be the favorite location for Mexican target practice. Scouts of the 33rd Massachusetts infantry were fired on by Mexican sharpshooters and sentries of the regular army have had narrow escapes. At each new report of sniper regulars have been sent to teach discipline across the river with the accuracy of American rifle fire but the sniping parties have made good their escape.

TEXT OF NOTE.

Landing Accepts Carranza's Offer of Aid.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The state department today made public the text of the note sent to the Carranza government in Mexico accepting the latter's offer to settle all differences between the two governments immediately by direct negotiations. The note, which is addressed to Ambassador Designate Arredondo, follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of July 4, 1916, in which you transcribe a note addressed to me by the secretary of foreign relations of your government and to request that you will transmit to him the following reply:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your courteous note transmitted to me by Senator Arredondo on the 4th instant in which you refer to my notes of June 20th and June 23rd, and to assure you of the sincere gratification of my government, at the frank statement of the difficulties which have unfortunately arisen in our relations along the international boundary, and the unreserved expression of the desire of your government to reach an adjustment of these difficulties on a broad and amicable basis. The same spirit of friendship and of solicitude for the continuance of cordial relations between our two countries inspires my government, which equally desires an immediate solution of the matters of difference which have long vexed both governments.

"It is especially pleasing to my government that the de facto government of Mexico is disposed to give quick as well as practical consideration in a spirit of concord to the remedies which may be applied to the existing conditions. Reciprocating the same desire, the government of the United States is prepared immediately to exchange views as to a practical plan to remove finally and prevent a recurrence of the difficulties which have been the source of controversy.

"Accept, Mr. Secretary, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration.

"I am, sir,

"Yours very sincerely,

"ROBERT LANSING."

FEW AMERICANS REMAIN.

Only 50 Left in Vera Cruz, Says U. S. Consul.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Consul Canada at Vera Cruz reported today to the state department that only 50 American refugees are now in that city. They all come from Mexico City and are awaiting transportation to the United States. Canada reported that there are now en route to the United States besides the 685 refugees on the transport Sumner, just arrived at Tampa, the following number:

On a Ward line steamer 67; on a Wolvin line steamer 19; on the transport Hancock 60.

Commander Burrage of the battleship Nebraska at Vera Cruz, today said all Americans from Progreso and other east coast ports south of Vera Cruz had been brought out.

LITTLE OPPOSITION FROM SAN DOMINGO

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Naval officials here today were certain that American marines under Colonel Josh Pendleton had entered Santiago, Santo Domingo, without opposition, and are now patrolling the city.

A dispatch from Rear Admiral Caperton from Santo Domingo City dated yesterday was received today, stating that Colonel Pendleton would enter Santiago last night or early this morning. No opposition was expected.

CLOGGED LIVER "MUDDLES UP" THE ENTIRE SYSTEM

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Will Make Your Liver Act Freely and Start You Feeling Good in Half an Hour.

The liver is the drain of the system. When it becomes clogged all kinds of stomach complications—constipation—headaches—and other troubles result.

To resort to calomel and such drugs is a mistake. Such "remedies" weaken the entire system. They always irritate the delicate membranous linings and frequently salivate and upset the stomach.

Instead of such "harsh measures" go to your drugstore and get a 15 cent bottle of concentrated Tollo Water from Dawson Springs, the famous Kentucky health resort (it contains enough Tollo Water for several liver baths), and before breakfast take about a third of a tumblerful of Tollo Water in a glass of drinking water.

It will flush all the bile and waste matter from the system and you will be surprised and pleased at how quickly and thoroughly it acts. Your headaches will disappear, your eyes will become bright and clear, your meals will no longer distress you by forming gas that bloats your stomach.

The occasional use of Tollo Water as a liver bath keeps the stomach and liver in perfect condition.

ORPET ATTORNEYS CONCLUDE DEFENSE

Rest Case After Tearing
Big Hole in Plans of Prosecution.

WACKEGAN, Ill., July 7.—The defense in the trial of Will Orpet on the charge of murdering Marion Lambert rested its case today, and the state began its final effort to send the young collegian to the gallows.

The state first endeavored to bring Orpet back to the stand for more cross-examination. The motion was denied and they then put on the stand Mrs. Marguerite Youker, sister-in-law of Celestia Youker, the school teacher for whose love the state alleges Orpet slew his former sweetheart.

After answering a few questions, Mrs. Youker was turned over to Orpet's attorneys for cross-examination and they drew from her the story of the state's attempt to decoy a confession of guilt from Orpet through a letter Celestia Youker wrote to him at the direction of State's Attorney Dady. Orpet's reply to the letter was a flat denial of guilt.

It is improbable that the fate of Orpet, however, will be placed in the jury's hands before Monday or Tuesday. The state is expected to occupy the rest of the week in a final attempt to convict the defendant. Then will come the summing up of both sides. Sensations came thick and fast in the closing hours of the defense's presentation. With hammerlike blows Orpet's lawyers introduced to the thrilled court-room chemists and poison experts whose testimony boiled down to the essence was that it would have been practically impossible for Will Orpet to have obtained cyanide of potassium which caused Marion Lambert's death. The can in the Orpet green-house they pronounced to be sodium cyanide, not potassium cyanide, which was found in the dead girl's stomach. They also doubted if a drug store in northern Illinois carried on its shelves potassium cyanide. The usual thing is for druggists to substitute sodium cyanide, when potassium is called for, they declared. The effects are the same, but the two poisons are distinctly different.

Whether the state will be able to overcome this damage to its case will be revealed today and tomorrow when will come the final effort to convict the young collegian of poisoning his discarded sweetheart.

MYSTERIOUS CIPHER IS STILL UNSOLVED

Police Get Possible Tip in Suggestion as to Code.

Although we have received several replies to our request in the July 3 issue of this paper in regard to the cipher note that we published, other solutions submitted will be greatly appreciated and may be the means of assisting in solving a big mystery.

For the benefit of persons who did not see the note when it was published the first time, it reads as follows: "Was nykafv by akak tpxsck upbk tpxh ohk ybxc ctmxhg was safp zaviz akay there first talk week warx za with thx".

A reply this morning through the mail gives a possible solution, but the exactness of it is questioned by the writer who claims that it is made up of several codes. Some answers have been inclined to predict that the code is designed in a foreign language. Persons interested in attempting to solve the note may receive some assistance from the following key worked out by a reader:

A stands for O; B stands for A; U stands for U; G stands for L; H stands for R; K stands for T; L stands for C or X; M stands for P; O stands for F; S stands for C; T stands for N; V stands for E; W stands for H; X stands for E; Y stands for M; Z stands for G.

WHY ENDURE SUMMER COLDS? It isn't necessary to have a stuffed head, running nose. To cough your head off as it were. All you need do is to use Dr. Bell's Pine-Apple Honey. The soothing and healing balsams open the clogged air passages and in a short time you get relief and start on the road to recovery. Your nose stops running, you cough less and you know you are getting better. Get a bottle, use as directed. Keep what is left as a cough and cold insurance.

ents, alarmed by the spread of the disease found themselves in a difficult position today. When they tried to secure accommodations in country towns and resorts in order to take their children away from the threatening danger they were informed that no children would be taken. Undeterred by this, scores took their children away without any definite idea of their final destination.

The flight of panic-stricken families from New York City has added another peril to the situation. Among the children taken are some believed to have been already stricken with the disease. As a result physicians today advised parents intending to leave the city to go by automobile as far as possible and avoid using trains in which the germs of the disease might be lurking.

Government to Aid.
U. S. Health Department Will Offer Assistance to New York.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—All of the resources of the federal public health service will be utilized in an effort immediately to stamp out the epidemic of infantile paralysis now central in New York City. The department will send a corps of experts to New York City to co-operate with the health authorities there. The first work will be an endeavor to trace the origin of the epidemic and to hold it in check. The service also will ask all departments of health in the east immediately to adopt special precautions to check the dread malady and will insist that all cases be reported as soon as discovered.

Dr. W. C. Rucker, assistant surgeon-general of the public health service has sent word to the New York City authorities that all of the resources in his department are at their service. There is a present source of danger, he said today, in the fact that many parents are fleeing from the infected region in New York to health resorts along the coast and in the neighborhood of the lakes. Some of these persons or their children may already have been exposed to contagion and especial warning will be sent to resort health officers to be on their guard.

If funds are needed to check the spread of the malady they will be promptly forthcoming, congressional leaders said today.

APPEARS IN OTHER CITIES.

Chicago and Philadelphia Find Cause for Extreme Precautions.

CHICAGO, July 7.—With one death from infantile paralysis already reported and seven cases under surveillance, Illinois health authorities today began a fight to prevent a general epidemic of the dreaded disease such as is now sweeping New York. All trains coming into Chicago were closely scrutinized by agents of the state board of health. Four cases are at Standard, Ill., where there is a large settlement of foreigners. Others are Cherry and Streator, Ill., according to health authorities. The one death was reported in Chicago.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 7.—With two cases of infantile paralysis recorded in this city, Dr. Krusen of

WHAT IS A PARTY MAN?

That party lines are being broken more and more each day is a common observation in political circles, and it is generally conceded that only the professional politicians suffer as a consequence. But the fact remains that no matter how frequently a voter leaves his party to support a deserving member of the opposition, he must have a party in order to vote at primary elections.

But just what constitutes membership in a party? According to the laws of Ohio, the habit of voting for a majority of the candidates of that party for election makes the voter eligible to the title of Democrat or Republican. The petition-signing statute, however, has made it more complicated.

The Prohibition candidate for member of congress from the fourth district is Attorney Harvey M. Dersham, of Darke county. He has been designated as the "canon" party's choice and his name will appear on the ticket in November. But the same Harvey M. signed the petition of Judge James L. Allread for another term on the appellate bench in the Second judicial district. By that Dersham, as a Republican, testified to his belief that Allread was also a Republican. He did not pledge himself to support him, but inferred that he knew the judge to be a Republican because he was himself a member of the party.

Now the question arises, what is Dersham? Is he a Prohibitionist because his name is to appear in the column of that party, or is he a Republican? The same question will fit many other cases in which men are half one way and half another.

BABY PLAY

With the city auditor's hands tied, unable to issue a warrant for any of the city's indebtedness, the city council continues its "baby play", and refuses to hold a special session to consider the semi-annual appropriation ordinance. Failure to keep faith with the residents of the East Side in the matter of providing for the Market street subway under the D. T. and L. tracks caused a break in the ranks at the regular session of council last Monday evening, and the meeting closed in a genuine row. Despite the fact that they are elected to serve the city they do not show evidence of being big enough to get together and adjust their differences and provide the city with funds.

"DICTATION"

"We had not tried to dictate the internal affairs of others nations until Mr. Wilson departed from our well established course in relation to Mexico," says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Was it not dictation in "the internal affairs" of Cuba when under President Roosevelt in 1906 the United States took over the government of the island republic, virtually forced the resignation of Palma and established a provisional control under American direction?

Was it not dictation in "the internal affairs" of Colombia when President Roosevelt "took" Panama in 1903 and used the military resources of the United States to prevent Colombia from trying to re-conquer the rebellious state? Was it not dictation in "the internal affairs" of San Domingo when in 1905 President Roosevelt forced on that nation a treaty under which an agent of the United States appointed by him took charge of the custom houses and administered the finances of the little republic?

What is "dictation" and what are "internal affairs"? It is one thing to differ honestly with President Wilson's handling of the Mexican problem and quite another to say that his actions have been revolutionary. Former presidents, and in particular Mr. Roosevelt, have not scrupled to "dictate the internal affairs" of other nations in this hemisphere when it appeared to them to be in the interests of the people themselves and to promote the peace and progress of the two Americas.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Democrats nominated two nominees—Thomas Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Riley Marshall. That is why the Charley ticket's adherents, for lack of something better to say, accuse the administration of being pro-British.

The discharge from duty of all militiamen with families or others dependent on them, ordered by Secretary of War Baker, will not help Hughes much in his campaign against the present administration.

The Italians are again on the offensive. Garlic season must be here.

Speaking of has-beens, what has become of the candidate who carried "licker"?

GOOD EVENING: What ever became of the old-fashioned youth who carried a picture in the lid of his watch?

What Other Papers Say

SUMMER'S START IN THE SOUTH.

The high temperatures in the far southwest, reported as above 100 degrees in Southern Arizona on Wednesday afternoon, may be regarded as indicating the approach of summer in that region and its gradual extension into the great central valleys.

The natural gateway by which summer always enters the United States is the southwest. In that portion of the country the warm winds blowing from the subtropical region at this season first make their strong influence felt, and thence they slowly gain the ascendancy over the states of the lower Mississippi and Ohio valleys.

It seems unlikely that there will be any immediate development of extreme heat in the North Atlantic states. But it is quite possible that real summer conditions will occur in this section within ten days.—New York Herald.

grandson of an old artist friend of hers. She is persuaded by him to return home, but upon being urged to marry her stepbrother she goes to the home of the artist, where Jack is visiting. After some time she and Jack are married and go to his home, where her rough mountain training gets her and her husband in many embarrassing situations. Finally Jack returns to a life of dissipation and she returns home to the mountains. Here her husband follows and finds her, winning her again and bringing her home.

Well, Anyway, He is Nice Looking. Francis X. Bushman's admirers are divided into two warring factions.

One faction protests that he wears his hair too long, and the other faction insists that he has it cut quite short enough.

WOULD HAVE CLERK NAMED BY JUDGE

CEDAR POINT, O., July 6.—Members of the Ohio Bar association at their meeting this morning learned that Samuel Undermyer of New York, would be unable to deliver the principal address at the annual convention here today. Senator T. J. Walsh of Montana, will take his place on the program this afternoon. It appears certain that the committee on legal reforms will recommend universal jury service with authority for the court to discharge a juror or after two weeks service and for punishment of employers who discharge employees who are compelled to serve on juries, and will be adopted by the association. George W. Ritter, Toledo attorney, will ask the association to recommend the establishment of the elective office of clerk of courts and make this an appointive position under the county judge.

ARMENIAN HISTORY:

The history of the later years of the Armenian kingdom is bound up in the history of Armenia. The strong-hold city became the capital of the Bagratid kings of Armenia in 961. The Byzantine emperor captured it in 1046, and it was then a hive of many scores of thousands, a wealthy city and an inviting one. The Seljuk Turks carried fire and sword throughout its confines 18 years later. The warlike Georgians took it five times between 1125 and 1200. The Mongols overran it in 1239, and an earthquake in 1319 completed the work of ruin. The great cathedral, the most perfect survival, was founded in 1010, just at the beginning of the city's long chain of misfortunes.—Exchange.

JOYS OF A SOLDIER

Then the parson said, 'No 575, art thou weary, art thou languid?' and I got seven days C. B. for giving him a civil answer."—Manchester Guardian.

CALIFORNIA HAS LARGEST OAK ON THIS CONTINENT

Residents of San Benito
Declare It Bears Tons of Acorns Annually.

Indiana's Biggest Tree is a Sycamore, at Head of Its Class.

The American Genetic association has announced the award of two prizes of $100 each for the location of the largest nut bearing and non-nut bearing trees in the country. The largest nut-bearing tree is a valley oak on the ranch of B. F. Gruver, San Benito county, Cal., in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

This lordly tree measured 37 feet 6 inches in circumference. It is near the city of Stockton, and the natives, who declare that it produces a ton of acorns every year, take great pride in it.

It is expected that the "discovery" of this tree will be at once a surprise and a disappointment to the friends of the famous Hooker oak of Chico, Cal., named for the English botanist, Sir Joseph Hooker, who, in 1872, declared that so far as encyclopaedic knowledge went, it was the largest oak in the world.

Several persons sent in photographs of the Hooker oak which, however, is only 21 feet 8 inches in circumference, although it rises to a height of 105 feet.

The largest tree in the non-nut-bearing class of hardwoods disclosed by the contest is a sycamore near Worthington, Ind. This tree is 150 feet high, after having had its height considerably reduced by lightning and wind.

It has a spread of 100 feet and its trunk one foot above the ground is 45 feet 3 inches in circumference, while its east branch measures 27 feet 8 inches around and its west branch 23 feet 2 inches.

This Indiana tree is the largest known tree in all the eastern country. It does not compare, of course, with the giant redwoods of California and some other big conifers, none of which was entered in the contest for that reason. Some of the giants of California measure more in diameter than the Hoosier sycamore in circumference.

The Worthington sycamore grows on the rich alluvial loam of White river, a stream which frequently overflows its banks, depositing layers of silt. This is believed to be one of the principal factors which have contributed to the remarkable growth of this tree. Like most sycamores, the Worthington tree is hollow at its base and recently was somewhat damaged by fire.

Many Photos Entered.

The Genetic association received 337 tree photographs in this contest, which started in October, 1914, and closed July 1 last year. These pictures covered trees in all sections of the country, from a 250-year-old Connecticut elm, which is the pride of all the countryside, to a persimmon tree, which rises to a height of 130 feet and has a base 7 feet thick, establishing a new record for its species. The persimmon tree is near Luxora, Ark.

The second largest nut-bearing tree disclosed by the contest is a chestnut three miles from Crestmont, N. C., on the main range of the Big Smoky mountains, which divide North Carolina and Tennessee. This tree is 75 feet high and has a circumference of 33 feet 4 inches.

An article giving the details of the contest, which will shortly appear in the official organ of the Genetic association, says:

"It is impossible even to mention all of the valuable records sent to the American Genetic association. Many persons, entering into the spirit of the contest, said they knew the trees of which they sent in photographs were not prize winners, but they wanted them recorded in the interest of science.

"Others sent large specimens of species that ordinarily reach only a small size, realizing that the prize would go to some larger species, but desiring to aid the association in setting a record of all species.

"Thus excellent specimens of sassafras, chinquapin, catalpa and white birch were submitted, and make highly valued additions to available information on large trees in the United States.

"It is announced that the contest confirms the fact that the sycamore is the largest hardwood tree in North America. Yellow poplar ranks next to sycamore in point of size among the non-nut-bearing hardwoods. One of the photographs submitted in the contest was of a yellow poplar near Reems Creek, N. C., which is estimated to be 198 feet in height and 34 feet 6 inches in circumference.

SHOULD SLOAN'S LINIMENT GO ALONG?

Of course it should. For after a strenuous day when your muscles have been exercised to the limit an application of Sloan's Liniment will take the soreness and stiffness away and get you in the shape for the morning. You should also use it for a sudden attack of toothache, stiff neck, backache, stings, bites and the many accidents that are incidental to a vacation. "We would as soon leave our baggage as go on a vacation or camp out without Sloan's Liniment." Writes one vacationist. "We use it for everything from cramps to toothache." Put a bottle in your bag, be prepared and have no regrets.

DISCONTENT

DISCONTENT! How often do we see it written on the faces of the people we pass, or surprise it on the faces of our friends when their minds are not alert. Pretty girls, beautiful women, handsome men made unattractive with a restless, unhappy look that distorts their features. Out of their eyes, "windows of the soul," a shallow look of unhappiness gleams forth, instead of the serenity born of a happy mind.

We of today rush, bitter and thither, pursuing this pleasure or that, only to find it gone when we think we have grasped it. And then our appetite sharpened, we hurry on, until our capacity for the simple things in life are narrowed and we begin to feel the pang of discontent. And then it grows, this feeling until there is seemingly no cure and we go through life making ourselves unhappy, taxing the good will of others, and falling in the biggest task set before us—that of life.

Good times—what constitutes your good time? Can you by yourself go out in the early morning along a country road and have a good time? Or does such a thing seem ridiculous to you? Can you, with a calmness of spirit and an uncoveted heart, see your wealthy sister go by in pursuit of her happiness, while you must walk with only the blue sky above you and the green grass beneath you? Or do you run from one thing and another, wishing that you were like your poorer sister because the poor are happy in their unresponsibilities. Down deep in your heart what makes you discontented? What is wrong, and why, if you are a person of character, don't you right that wrong, get beneath the surface of things, find the right philosophy of life which consists of happiness, whose other name is content?

MR. AND MRS. J. E. PORTER and sons William and David returned last evening from a motor trip to Cleveland. Mrs. Thomas Parry and son Haden, of Cleveland, accompanied the party to Lima.

Mrs. J. O. Ohler, of West Market street, entertained the members of the West End Bridge club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Ping pong were used in decorating the luncheon table, and the color was carried out with dainty favors and place cards. Substitutes for the afternoon were Mrs. H. B. Robbins, of Weddston, Ohio, Mrs. Della Paine, Mrs. A. L. White, Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie, Mrs. William L. Russell and Mrs. C. H. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hoyer, of Detroit, Mich., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hausa, of North Pierce street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kieffer, of South Union street, have as their house guests, Mrs. Mattie Kavel and daughter Kathryn, of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McPherson and son, of St. Paul, Minn., are the guests of A. F. McPherson, of Shawnee township. Hamilton McCoy, of California, is also a guest at the McPherson farm.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hausa, of North Pierce street, entertained with a dinner Wednesday evening complimenting their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hoyer, of Detroit.

The Rhododendron Dell in Kew Gardens, to which so many Londoners have recently made joyful pilgrimage, has a history specially interesting in these days. The wonderful "hollow walk," which, like all else at Kew, looks so utterly natural, was originally excavated for George III. by the Midland militia, whilst they were encamped in Richmond park. George III. was at the time living at Kew palace. Mrs. D'Arbly tells how he lived at Kew, "in a very easy and unreserved way, without form or ceremony of any sort." He desired, however, a sheltered and private walk close at hand, and so the excavation was undertaken. It was, of course, just the kind of work that appealed to "farmer George."

An interesting meeting of the Pastime club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Van Eman. Flags and garden flowers were used in making the home attractive. Mrs. B. M. Miller and Mrs. Virgil Effinger were the guests of the club. A delicious two course luncheon concluded the afternoon's pleasures. Mrs. Henry Prosser will entertain the club at its first fall meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thrift are entertaining Mrs. R. W. Kendall of Toledo.

Mrs. John Wolfe of South Metcalf street, was the hostess yesterday of the South Side Embroidery club. Mrs. Ralston was the successful contestant of a contest given. Mrs. Frysinger was the only guest of the club. Mrs. T. C. Morrison and Mrs. Bannister assisted the hostess in serving a delicious lunch, after which the club adjourned.

Members of the Hawthorne club were entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. B. H. Price. Pink roses added much to the attractiveness of the rooms, where games and contests were provided for diversion. Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Rhodes were the guests of the club. Delicious refreshments concluded an altogether delightful meeting.

It was no doubt a rare pleasure to the members of the Garden Club of America, says the Christian Science Monitor, in connection with their recent annual meeting, to visit the garden at the summer home of Joseph H. Choate, in Lenox, Mass., and to be shown its treasures by the owner and his wife. The tract is called an English garden, and Mr. Choate has, it is said, been developing it during the last 30 years. It is pleasant to think of an English garden, matured with much care by the former ambassador to England, in a New England district that is sometimes, and fittingly, called one great garden.

Quite the most attractive affair of the season was given last evening at the Elks' Home, when Miss Francis Wright and Miss Hazel Wright entertained with a dance in honor of their house guests, Miss Fay of Pittsburgh, Miss Doris Palmer of Sharon, Pa., and Miss Mary Clark of York, Neb. Palms and white roses were used in decorations, the green and white color scheme being carried out in the programs and the lunch, which was served after the first half of the dance. "Wonderful," is the only fitting word that could be applied to the music, which was furnished by the Fisher orchestra from Cleveland.

Out of town guests included: Misses Dorothy Barrett of Cincinnati, Dorothy and Grace Dick of Akron, Georgianna Blitzer of Toledo, Doris Palmer of Sharon, Helen Bicknell of Findlay, Elizabeth Kearnes of Minneapolis, Margaret Kaufman of Columbus, Hazel Clark of Des Moines, Iowa, Mary Clark of York, Neb., Virginia Wirley of Keaton, and Messrs. Herbert Catt of St. Louis, Mark Kotler of Wapakoneta, Victor Mansfield of Defiance, Edwin Welsh of Athens, Robert May of Delaware, Harold Neely of St. Marys, John Hoff of Findlay, Charles Steele of Columbus, Robert Warner of Delaware, Patterson Pogue of Cincinnati, Slack Barrett of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Earl Kimpel, accompanied by Miss Marie Kimpel, returned yesterday from a several days' visit with Mrs. Otto Kimpel of Wapakoneta.

Mrs. David H. Stoner and family and Miss Margaret Stoner of Bellefontaine avenue, will leave today to make their home in Wooster, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisher, who have been the guests for the past several days of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Napier, at Orchard Island, returned yesterday.

Sobriety for the whole world! Such a stride toward the millennium, to be taken at the close of the war, is a worthwhile aim proposed at the recent meeting in Indianapolis, Ind., of the Anti-Saloon league of America. A world conference to this end, to meet in the city where peace treaties are arranged, is the way this idea is presented for consideration. It appears, of course, a big undertaking, but not half so big, or so difficult, as it would have seemed before the chastening lessons and the sweeping advance toward temperance that have come with the world conflict.

For midsummer, the horsehair hat with its light transparent veil is both smart and practical. Here it is shown in horsehair lace with a single carding in black silk and two huge beaded pinheads. For restaurant or dressy afternoon wear this type of hat is particularly attractive.

Infantile Paralysis Terror of N. Y.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Physicians of the United States public health service are greatly alarmed at the epidemic of infantile paralysis now raging in New York City. They fear the spread of the disease over the country. Today they issued a warning, asking the public through the International News Service to take the utmost precaution to avoid contagion. The service explains that the disease is by no means peculiar to infants but attacks adults with serious and very often fatal consequences. Hot, dry weather is extremely favorable to the spread of the disease, it is declared, and the infantile paralysis germ is facile in finding vehicles to convey it from infected persons to well ones.

One of the principal manifestations of the disease is the presence of nose and mouth secretions, and this substance, bearing highly fertile germs, readily is communicated unless great care is taken in using rigorous preventative measures. Handkerchiefs used by patients, or those attending them, should either be burned or disinfected with carbolic acid or some other strong negative element. Sanitary conditions of the premises of which patients are inmates should be as perfect as possible. Inadequacy in this department will facilitate communication of the disease.

The health service explains that mild attacks are very dangerous to the communications, because although but partially effective in the person attacked, the disease may pass readily, causing the most aggravated cases.

Furthermore, it is stated entirely well persons may convey infantile paralysis germs without themselves becoming affected. For this reason the service warns communities in which infantile paralysis is existent to discontinue all public gatherings and, if epidemic threatens, to close schools, churches and Sunday schools, as well as theaters and other popular resorts.

Flies carry infantile paralysis germs, so windows and doors must be screened and all food carefully protected. The service states that the old theory that infantile paralysis was caused by the bite of the stable fly has been exploded, but that flies and other insects carry the germs through contact.

The service particularly warns the public to report suspected cases of infantile paralysis to the health authorities immediately and to summon competent medical aid. The disease then can be checked, preventing deformity, it is stated. Even in cases of deformity surgeons sometimes can overcome the most serious defects, the service explains. All cases should be isolated at the first symptoms.

It is admitted that comparatively little is known about infantile paralysis. Government experts are now at work on an exhaustive study of the disease and further preventative measures are expected to be devised.

PERSONALITIES I HAVE MET

D. W. GRIFFITH—PART III.

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

PERHAPS one of the most prominent figures in America today is D. W. Griffith, the famous moving-picture producer, and I am so proud to tell that my first years of training were with him as my director. As I have already written about my early days at the Biograph studio and the difficult tests Mr. Griffith put me to, I must now start in to give you a few ideas of the manner in which he directed us.

"Doesn't he yell through a megaphone at his company?" I was asked by a newspaper woman the other day. "It seems to me I would be quite terrified if I were an actress and heard a voice roaring at me across the stage."

"He does use a megaphone at times," was my reply, "but that is only for the great mob scenes, where he is directing hundreds of actors and actresses. Then his voice must ring out above the din and confusion so that even the extra men on the most remote part of the field will hear and obey his commanding tones just as a soldier looks to his general for orders. But during the quiet scenes, or the tense dramatic moments," I explained to her, "his manner changes entirely and his methods are simple, direct and forceful."

For the first rehearsal, we were all taken aside and intelligently explained the story, the theme and the dramatic possibilities of it. After this was made comprehensive, we walked through the scenes to get our positions, and then we were coached by this great artist as to how we were to play them.

"Simplicity is the keynote of success," he would often warn us; "simplicity and sincerity."

In the early days of pictures, Mr. Griffith had to produce two stories a week, and sometimes when we started out the material he desired had not been submitted, so we began without any story at all. Often do I remember the days when Mr. Griffith would call into the office Henry Walthall, Florence Lawrence, Marion Leonard, Bobbie Herron and myself, and confess that he had no story. But this did not mean a delay for us, as Mr. Griffith would create his story right around our own personalities, as they appeared to him in their many guises. And out of these little seeds of ideas grew the giant oaks of his success, the very bits of them being his own individuality.

Another attribute of Mr. Griffith's character is his great love for children and his ability to make them understand and appreciate his requirements of them. I knew that you who have seen his pictures have always been touched by the little, sweet, tender, natural children who seemed to romp through their scenes unconscious that a camera was registering their footsteps and their expressions.

For a few months I left Biograph studio and went with another company. Then it was that I appreciated what Mr. Griffith had done for me and realized that I not only mislaid his direction, but was discouraged and disheartened without it. How happy I was the day I returned to resume my work at the Biograph, and how much more I enjoyed the artistic, human stories Mr. Griffith was producing at that time.

Blanche Sweet was one of the most promising of his proteges, and she proved herself to be an undisputed star after her appearance in "Judith of Bethulia."

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel Receives Ralph's Dying Hope With a Promise.

RALPH GORDON sat with his head buried in his hands, and his elbows on his knees. He had not moved for half an hour. The house was very quiet. The maid had gone out and since Ethel had rushed off in a flood of tears, because he had proposed that his mother make them a visit and give Ethel some practical lessons in house-wifery, he had heard nothing of her.

"She is so unreasonable," Ralph was saying to himself. "It has come to this, that her moods constitute the chief object of my study. I have really to take my mind off my business to ponder how to manage a situation so as to keep affairs running smoothly. This sort of life is anything but happy." The clock ticked with awful distinctness in the silent house.

"Besides," continued the gloomy voice inside him, "no amount of effort on my part will keep our relations smooth, for the reason that our principles are opposed. Can she not see? Evidently not, and it is hopeless to try to make her."

"And what am I to?" he asked himself. "I can not change her in any way. Each day we drift farther apart. Each day her light carefree ways grow more exasperating, and I am beginning to feel her actually a burden." The thought was at first a distinct shock. "Yes, a burden," he reiterated. "I can not put the concentration on my business that I should to succeed, living in this state of ferment."

He heard a soft step on the carpet behind him, but he did not look up.

"I wonder what her next move will be," he thought. Although he did not stir all his senses were alert. She slid onto the wide arm of the chair and stole an arm around his neck, pulling at his fingers to remove them from his eyes.

"Ralph, kiss me," she murmured tearfully. As he kissed her he absorbed all emotions that had passed and was passing through her mind. He felt a timid pleading to be loved and a desire to please that he was sure was something new in her experience.

"Ralph," she began after she had lain quiet on his arms for some minutes. "I have been thinking that I might learn housekeeping from books. I might take a course by correspondence. What do you think of the plan?"

"It surely is worthy trying," he replied in a tone that tried to atone for the inclemency of his thoughts about her. "Of course you will find it harder than having some one show you, for you have not been doing much studying lately and books do not appeal to you very much. It will cost very little to try and it will give you something to think about."

"You do not think I can do it," said the subdued little voice.

"You can, if you are interested enough," was his evasive answer. "I'll send for a course of study at once."

"If I can not learn it alone, I might go home for a little while and take a course there," suggested Ethel after a silence.

"That is out of the question," burst out Ralph. "With all your girl friends to distract you and your mother to make you feel that you should do nothing, you would get nowhere in Milwaukee."

"You are hard on mamma," pouted the girl. "You do not want me near her."

"Surely not when you are planning to make a radical change in your habits. A change that will be hard enough without the hindrance she would surely be."

"Ralph is brutally frank," thought his wife.

marked to Mr. Griffith when we met in Hollywood at the "Little White Kitchen," the dining hall of the Hollywood studios. We chatted over the milk, the thick sandwiches and the pie—then he invited me to go with him and visit the Mutual studio, where he was then directing. Gladly I went and enjoyed my visit until Mr. Griffith tried to persuade me "for old times' sake" to let him direct a scene with me as his leading woman. It would have been a pleasure had it not been for the hundreds of curious eyes turned upon us, but before their unflickering interest I fled in terror.

A few days later, I went to the opening night in Los Angeles of "The Birth of a Nation." During the thundering applause we heard around in search of Mr. Griffith, and while the audience was calling "Speech! Speech!" one of us distinguished him far in the background, hiding away, too modest and too bashful to face those who should have carried him out on their shoulders in their enthusiasm.

I met him afterward and he asked me, "Mary, what do you think of it?"

"I simply cannot talk about it now," I replied to him: "I am so filled with the emotions of it, I will have to tell you later."

In speaking of it a few days afterward, I not only praised the beautiful little touching incidents in it, but told him how impressed I was by the awe-inspiring sight of the Ku Klux Klan wading through the water toward the camera, and how nights when I was lying awake, I would think of them on that moonlight night, like a regiment of ghosts coming over the hill and vanishing from sight.

Every one is waiting impatiently for his next picture, and though secrecy is strictly maintained about it, I am going to betray that I saw in California whole blocks of buildings marvelously constructed, replicas of the streets of ancient Babylon. In the near future, I am going to write again of my personal experiences with Mr. Griffith, the wizard of moving pictures.

Pageant Portraits

ARABIAN NIGHTS

Shaherizade, Queen of Persia, lives again and a thousand mimics enact the spirit of her fantastic and multi-jeweled tales. Could the great King of Persia return in the flesh and see the presentation of these wonderful tales of his favorite as given with a wealth of oriental luxuriance, by the Barnum & Bailey circus in Lima on July 26, he would probably turn green with envy to find all his own pomp and imaginings so completely outdone.

The 785 horses, Arabians, and descendants of those in the great Caliph's own stables, carry but a small portion of the great host of 1,275 actors who move in this mighty pageant. Forty kingly elephants bear the princes and beauties of the east in the procession, while a caravan of 35 camels usher in the world Arabian warriors of old.

It has taken an initial outlay of a million dollars to bring forth this splendid pageant of the ancient Orient and make it live again in the present day. The title of the production is "Persia, or the Pageants of the Thousand and One Nights."

The time and labor of many artists has gone into the infinite historic and artistic research necessary for each one of the 3,500 costumes that garb this great army of actors.

The pageant precedes the opening acts of the circus at each performance and has been drilled to a point of absolute perfection by a staff of stage directors, headed by Ottokar Bartik of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York City.

At Madison Square Garden, New York City, where the great procession was first shown to the public it was conceded that Barnum & Bailey had outdone themselves in this remarkable display, more brilliant than any of the previous pageants for which they have been so long famous.

THE FAUROT PICTURES. This is the last day of "A Million a Minute" at the Faurot, and those who have not seen Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in one of their biggest successes should not fail to take advantage of the few remaining opportunities to see this popular pair in a corking good picture. The program also contains a clever Metro-Draw comedy, "The Schemers", with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in happy roles, and a bit of travel in Pathcolor.

STAR THEATRE.

"The Heart of a Child", the new five-part Red Feather production at the Star theatre today, is a picture of the novel by Frank Danby. It gives a lot of pleasing color from the London settings and types. Star audiences will not find this subject foreign to their sympathies, for it is characterized by quick action and the acting is excellent in every respect. Edna Flugrath has the role of Sally, who keeps her child-like cockney associates at the height of her triumphs in musical comedy. Miss Flugrath depicted to a degree the character suggested in the novel, and makes it one of great appeal. There is an excellent cast in her support and the scenes of Hampstead Heath, of music halls, London streets and the countryside are well brought out by good photography.

As an added attraction the new Jungle comedy, "What Do You Think of That", with the wonderfully funny chimpanzees, "Napoleon" and "Sally" is shown for the last time.

WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it." Mrs. DEWITT SINCENAU, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, headache, dizziness, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

EILERMAN'S MID-SEASON SALE---A MONEY SAVING OPPORTUNITY

Japan Busy Building Battleships and Army

Mikado Straining Resources in Increase of Navy and Land Forces.

By Frederic J. Mackin.
—OUR TURN TO PLAY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7.—Why is Japan straining all her resources in the building of battleships today? Why has she increased her army by two divisions, with the prospect of further increases in the near future?

Long ago the European experts pointed the impregnability of Japan's domestic position. No nation on earth can even threaten her supremacy in the eastern waters, with the sole exception of her ally, Great Britain. Her home territory is absolutely unassailable, in the words of the experts, "by any power or combination of powers." Yet she appropriates one hundred million dollars toward carrying out her naval program. Yet she increases her army.

Of all first-class nations, Japan can afford such expenditures least. Her taxes are already staggeringly heavy—they have been increased six times in the last 20 years. She has no wealth of natural resources to draw on. Life for her congested population is a far sharper struggle than in the Occident, even without the added burden of a great militarism. It is inconceivable that a nation in such circumstances would plunge into reckless military expenditures without some immediate and definite use in view. In the case of Japan, that purpose cannot be home defense. She has more than enough already.

A consideration of world affairs today has shown how Japan and America stand out as the leading figures in the field of the Pacific. It has shown how America's interests and principles force her to stand in the way of policies to which Japan is driven by national necessity.

Yet Japan's militarism does not necessarily mean war. Militarism has other uses. Japan is a believer in the doctrine of force, in the principle that a nation's position and influence are dependent on its military strength. Her beliefs are the natural fruit of her own experience. When she was weak, she was a toy in the hands of Europe. Her very important duties were set for her by foreign nations. The spoils of the China-Japanese war were snatched from her at the moment of victory because she was powerless to resist.

Then she became strong. As her own statesmen point out, her real influence dates from the day of her strength. Backed by the prestige of her victory over Russia, by the fact that Europe knew the strength of her army and navy and their efficiency, she became a world-power, the dominant figure of the Orient. She allied herself on equal terms with the world's greatest naval power, Great Britain. Unopposed, she annexed Korea. Unopposed she dominates Manchuria. Unopposed she has wrrenched from defenseless China a set of unjust concessions. It is no wonder she believes in the value of a great army and navy.

Now her policy is on the eve of running counter to the policies of the United States. Her probable course in China is clearly indicated by her past course in Korea and Manchuria. Such a course will result in the cutting off of American commerce and industry from the immense Chinese field, at a time when that field is more valuable than ever before to our expanding industrial development. Japan needs the Chinese market, and she proposes to take it. More than that, she proposes to use the United States as her means of reaping its benefits. Unable to cope with the task of developing China alone, she wants to do the work by employing the financial strength of the United States. American capital will be forced to apply itself through Japanese channels if it is to be applied at all. Japan is compelling China to put the rights of entry and development into Japanese hands. The open door is being turned into a toll-gate with Japan behind the wicket.

The question is not only one of dollars. It is not primarily one of dollars. It is primarily a question of principle, and in that question, America stands for the right. This country today is passing through an acute revulsion from a former weakness for self-flattery. The soul-searchings raised by the great war have punctured a good many bubbles of national egotism. But our Chinese record bears the test. We stand in China for a square deal—just treatment for Chinese, for Japanese, for Europeans, for Americans; a fair field and no favors. We are asserting the fundamental principles of our republicanism and our democracy. There is more than money at stake in China.

Japan has also the problem of her surplus population to deal with. Her chosen outlet for that population is across the Pacific. Her stumbling-block is the Monroe Doctrine.

Her ends are not confined to questions of expediency alone. She has high ideals in the matter of her destiny. She believes that she is the chosen mediator between east and west. Alone among eastern nations she has assimilated western culture and western civilization without for a moment losing her Oriental individuality. She was the first eastern nation to vanquish a western foe. Her blows at Russia put a new complexion on the relation of half the world to the other half. They destroyed at one stroke the old belief in the innate superiority of the occidental. Japan gained a new status for every Oriental and for herself the place of leader and representative of the Orient—and she gained it by force.

There is the matter of Japan's national pride to be considered. Theoretically at least, and to a very large extent practically, the individual Japanese puts the glory of the empire and the semi-divine emperor above all personal considerations of profit or well-being, even above his life. Such a people can swallow arbitrary distinctions drawn against them by other nations, especially distinctions which cast an imputation of inferiority. The Japanese are keenly alive to this aspect of the situation. They have begun to tell us that the time has come for us to stop declaring how much we admire them, and do something to prove it. They have given form to their dissatisfaction with our attitude in a violent press campaign directed against us that has filled the nation with hostility to America.

Japanese statesmen have never for a moment lost sight of the opposition they may meet from the United States in dominating China and in emigrating across the Pacific. They are preparing to meet that opposition. No other possible object can be found for Japan's great military and naval program.

Japan has learned the lesson of modern diplomacy. She has seen the law demonstrated to perfection in the last few years of her own history—that the weight of diplomatic utterance and protest is neither more nor less than the weight of the fighting power back of it. She has seen one of her cities shelled by the British, in the days of her weakness, so collect an indemnity for a single murdered British citizen. She has seen Europe, in the days of her weakness, dictate the terms of her peace treaty with China. A few years later, grown strong, she saw that she could take from China whatever she wanted, without shadow of a right, by sole virtue of that strength. There was no necessity to fight for it. The mere threat of her power was enough.

Faced now by problems far greater than those she has solved, she is going to enter the diplomatic game of adjusting them with every ounce of possible force back of her diplomatic utterances. The greater her force, the less the chance that she will have to use it.

The playlet across the board is the United States of America. What weight is Japan going to attach to his diplomatic utterances?

The case of China gives the answer. If helplessness, if unpreparedness, backed only by the right, were any defense against aggression, China would have been impregnable in the China-Japanese negotiations. China was as helpless as it was possible for a nation to be. Her sole weapon was the right, and it won her exactly nothing at all.

What is the United States going to do about it? There is only one reasonable answer, one possible solution. Put behind our diplomacy a force that will enable it to deal with the diplomacy of Japan at least on equal terms. When we consider the relative resources of the two nations, we are put to shame if any idea of economy stands in our way. Japan is the poorest of the great powers; the United States is the richest. It has been estimated not long ago that the bank deposits of New York alone could wipe out the entire capitalized wealth of Japan, including bank deposits. Yet Japan, carrying a national debt greater than our own, at a higher rate of interest, with her people incomparably poorer and far more heavily taxed, is rapidly outstripping us in her progress toward power. If motives of economy have anything to do with our stand, we are indeed open to the charge that our patriotism does not go deep enough to reach our pockets.

If unwillingness to spend the necessary money is not the true cause of our apathy—and as a matter of fact it is not—if we have let ourselves be lulled into a false security, a baseless belief that we do not need preparedness, and preparedness on a large scale, then we lay ourselves open to the charge of being wilfully blind to the trend of events, of stubbornly refusing to open our eyes and see what is plain to be seen. The issues we shall have to meet are clear. The methods that will be employed in adjusting them have been demonstrated.

Those issues can be adjusted peacefully and satisfactorily. They will be so adjusted if Japan and America meet over them as man to man, with the mutual consideration born of mutual respect. They will not be so adjusted if our statesmen have to meet the statesmen of Nippon with nothing to lend weight to the claims of our rights and our interests but our unapplied money.

and our empty hands. If the adjustment is made under such circumstances, it will be made at our expense. It is for the American people to say whether our power shall gain our case consideration, or whether like Korea and like China we shall be a pawn in the hands of a superior force.

BOOST CHAUTAUQUA OVER ALLEN COUNTY

Three automobile parties toured the county yesterday, working in behalf of the coming Chautauqua. In one machine were Mayor Simpson, D. A. Bowser and W. L. Rogers, making friends with ticket buyers in Elida, Gomer, Vaughnsville, Wapakoneta, Hume and other towns.

Elmer McClain and W. H. Clarke, the latter head of the Chamber of Commerce, talked to friends and acquaintances in the eastern division and sold tickets.
E. T. Lippincott, Mrs. Withrow, F. C. Povenmire and R. C. Eastman made sure that the people of the west side of the county would not miss hearing and seeing all the good things of the Chautauqua.

The sale of season tickets has exceeded even the fondest hopes of those in charge of the big meeting, which will open next Thursday at Paurot park.

ANNUAL REUNION OF THE BEERY FAMILY

The Beery family held its ninth annual meeting in the Lima City park. Members of the families were from Allen, Champagne, Miami and Putnam counties. Dr. Mikesell and family were present from Ft. Wayne. Mrs. Jane B. Mikesell, whose maiden name was Beery, and who is the mother of Dr. Mikesell, met with a severe accident as she was getting out of her son's automobile as they entered the park. She sprained her ankle and had to be removed to the residence of R. C. Eastman. Cole and Market streets, where her wounds were dressed. Members of the family engaged in a game called "Three Deep or High Most Three." The exercises of this game took away all the chill of the rainy morning.

Mrs. Sophia Good and N. C. Beery distinguished themselves as good runners and hard to be caught. The tables were spread in the shelter building of the park and soon blossomed with good things to eat, provided by the Allen county Beery families.

After luncheon the following program was carried out.
Devotional exercises.
Short address by the president, R. C. Eastman.

Song by Miss Ruth Beery.
Short addresses by Dr. A. L. Mikesell, P. H. Beery and Leoline B. Eastman.

Minutes of the former meeting were read and approved and letters of greeting were read from the following: Mrs. Jerome Beery, of Knox, Ind.; Joseph Wenger, of South English, Iowa; Sonora Albert Beery, McCool Junction, Nebraska; J. L. Mikesell, of Lawton, Okla.; Martha B. Lahman, of Franklin Grove, Ill.; William Beery, J. F. Beery, Monmouth, Ore.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in Miami county, a month later, on the third Wednesday in July, 1917, either at Pleasant Hill or Sugar Grove. The present corps of officers by a unanimous vote were continued in office for another year. Ruth Beery rendered several comic songs, much to the delight of all present, and the reunion closed with everybody feeling it was a success.

R. C. Eastman, of Lima, is president and Catherine Van Dyke, secretary.

REPUBLICANS MAY BLOCK PASSAGE OF SHIP PURCHASE BILL

Early Adjournment of Congress Now Thought to be Unlikely.

Filibusters Against General Appropriation Measure Expected Soon.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Carefully laid democratic plans to get members of congress back to work on their political fences not later than the middle of August are in a fair way to be badly upset. Prospects of extended filibusters in the senate against the administration ship purchase bill and the $43,000,000 river and harbor appropriation bill forces democratic leaders to revise their confident assertion that congress would adjourn about August 20. The date of adjournment is now "indefinite." A democratic caucus tonight will decide whether to press the shipping bill or not.

The democratic leaders want to redeem the St. Louis platform pledge promising the ship bill to the country. The republicans have delivered an ultimatum declaring that the bill should go over until the next session of congress. Senator Gallinger, the republican leader stated the republican position thus:

"If for any reason the ship bill is to be taken up at this session it will most certainly be debated at considerable length, not in the nature of a filibuster, unless unusual methods are resorted to by the majority, but for the purpose helping the country understand the nature of the proposed legislation."

The decision as to whether the democrats will start a final fight for the ship bill finally will rest with President Wilson. Tonight's caucus, however, is expected to develop whether the majority can depend upon a solid democratic lineup for the bill.

SOCIETY BELLE'S JEWELS GONE.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The robbery of $25,000 worth of jewels from Miss Dorothy Taylor, a granddaughter of the late James R. Keene, was reported to the police today. While the family was at dinner last night in the Taylor summer home at Cedarhurst, Long Island, the burglar entered the house.

Major Harry W. Ulrich of Youngstown, today was made summary court officer of the Fifth regiment. He held his first military court today.

Five desertions in the Fifth regiment have been reported. Three of the men were rookies who had just joined Company H, under Captain John A. Logan of Youngstown. The men were arrested at Newark by railroad detectives and Captain Logan had them brought back under guard. They were placed in the guard house and disciplined by being given all the mean jobs about the camp.

The other two men—Privates David Lewis and George Hennrich of Company M, have not been heard from. Captain Wade C. Christy said today.

Wife's Petition.

That he spends his money other than on his wife, and is an able-bodied man, earning good wages, is the claim set up by Mrs. Anna George in her petition for divorce from John E. George. They went to Covington and were married on January 12 of this year. He left her on April 16 and she says now resides at 1415 Twelfth avenue, Altoona, Pa. He failed, she states, to provide her the common necessities of life ever since their marriage. She wants to be restored to her maiden name of Anna Florian.

GIRL DRINKS ACID.

COLUMBUS, July 7.—The lifeless body of Miss Florence Houser, aged

23, of Upper Sandusky, was found on the third floor hallway of the Star Hotel at 3:50 this morning by the night clerk. She had committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. She left a note stating that she had been in ill health for some time. "I couldn't stand it any longer," she said. "Please notify my parents and tell them to bury me in these clothes."

The girl's father was notified and assigned no reason for his daughter's act.

TRUST COMPANY IS VICTOR IN A LAWSUIT

The Lima Trust company's suit for money against Fred F. Stullon and others, was heard yesterday afternoon in court. Stullon and Gladys Stullon, by deed, on December 31, 1914, conveyed to Caroline Heap, real estate described in the petition. Later, she disposed of the same to John C. Parker, Gladys Stullon, Caroline Heap, Parker and his wife were not in court yesterday. The court found there is due $468.33 as balance of interest on a note given the trust company. The payment of the note was secured by a mortgage. Unless the interest is paid within a day by Caroline Heap or John C. Parker, the premises will be sold at public auction.

The note was for $12,000. The land consists of 138.45 acres, located in Sugar Creek township.

LOCAL MUSICIAN IS SAN CARLO BOOSTER

Prof. Fred Calvert Vouches
For Merit of Operatic Organization.

Prof. Fred Calvert of Lima, who has heard the San Carlo Grand Opera company, vouches for the troupe which will be one of the star attractions at the big chautauqua next Thursday. The week's entertainment will be held in a large tent, to be stretched in Fawcett park.

Prof. Calvert, writing to the Times-Democrat, says of the Grand Opera company:

"Some months ago, while in Canton, Ohio, I heard the San Carlo Grand Opera company. According to the program of the Lima chautauqua, I notice that the same company is to appear in Lima. In that connection I want to say that this community has a rare opportunity to hear the best parts of most of the famous operas, rendered by performers of the highest ability."

"Very truly yours,"

"FRED CALVERT."

Karl Germain, the great magician, does not give his performance on Sunday, but a week ago he happened in the Brookville, Pa., Methodist church on Sunday morning and made a half-hour address to a big Bible class. Rev. Potter, the pastor of the church, in his sermon which followed, commented on the close relation existing between the church and the chautauqua, and expressed his appreciation that a man whose vocation is that of a magician, in the thought of many a mere trickster, is the type of man that a church might welcome to speak on a religious theme. Germain is that kind—he has character and brains.

More than a score of delighted chautauquans followed the San Carlo company from Brookville, Pa., to DuBois, Pa., in order to hear their program for a second time.

The boys in khaki are profiting by the chautauquans in a number of Coit-Alber towns, the local committees announcing that all profits of the chautauqua will be turned over to the dependents of the boys who are now serving their country, either on the Mexican border or in training camps preparatory to going to the front.

"Cemented the good impression made here last year when he appeared before the county teachers' institute," says the Washington, Pa., Reporter, in commenting on Glenn Frank's lecture at the chautauqua. "A clear thinker who expresses himself in brilliant and forceful language."

Says the Lisbon, Ohio, Journal: "Hundreds of us would never have known just what grand opera means but for the visit of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, to our chautauqua. It is worth something to have made such progress, isn't it?"

Excellence of equipment means much to the comfort and safety of patrons of the Coit-Alber chautauquas. New water-proof tents, complete stages, with curtains and electric lighting equipment, folding chairs, etc., are but part of the many things provided. That the equipments are good, and handled by experts, was demonstrated Sunday, July 2, when the terrific storm which broke across the territory, failed to put a single Coit-Alber chautauqua out of business, and caused but slight delays in the putting on of the programs for that afternoon.

BURIED AT WOODLAWN.

Funeral services over the body of George Sammetinger, 67 years old, of 636 East Franklin street, were held yesterday at Immanuel's Lutheran church conducted by the pastor, the Rev. A. E. Bay. The body was laid to rest at Woodlawn. For many years he was a member of the board of directors of the Auglaize county fair and resided in that county the greater part of his life. He removed to Lima from Napakoneka six months ago. He was a carpenter and builder.

"When living in Syracuse, N. Y., about two years ago I took two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they cured me of indigestion and constipation after I had suffered for months with these disorders," writes Mrs. Charles Gloyd, Blandinsville, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.

FUNERAL OF MRS. DAVIDSON.

The body of Mrs. Della Davidson, who died Wednesday night at the City hospital, after having been at the institution four years, was accompanied this afternoon to Allentown, where funeral services were held at the Methodist church. Dr. M. B. Fuller, pastor of Trinity Methodist church of Lima, conducted the funeral. Interment was in the Allentown cemetery. Mrs. Davidson was 77 years old.
